On the 4th Martin Larrain arrived here. He is the same man who on the 4th instant saved the workmen who were on a strike in Iquique.

At 6:30 a. m. on the morning of the 33, upwards of 3;000 workmen collected at the Pozz Almonte in order to proceed to Iquique and make a formal representation respecting the scarcity of provisions. Shortly after they reached the works the manager, Mr. Johnson, gave them ten barrels of biscoits and 1,000 tins of preserves, which were distributed among the strikers. They remained there that night, and on the following day sent-some of their leaders on xcitement at the nearby coke works tosistants and guarded by Company C, White's this morning, including one in the notorious "Soup House." This was cept an occasional collision with an irate female. The evicting party then marched to Morgan's, attended by several hundred strikers. At the very outskirts a wild-eyed Hun struck Deputy Null reached here that the British columns with a stone. This was followed by a but no one was badly hurt by the volley.

House No. 5, occupied by Michael Mc Erney, a local leader, was soon reached, and Company C formed a circle about and Company C formed a circle shout it, keeping back the crowd that now had grown to enormous proportions. Mrs. McErney was in delicate health, but when Deputy Dickson grabbed a chair she flew at him, when he lost his head, drew two buildog revolvers and, calling her a vile name, threatened to shoot. Cries of "shame" and "coward" from the guards and strikers alike overawed the fellow and he slunk away. The woman amused hersolf by thumping Deputy Skyles on the ribs with a jug, then sat down smidst her household goods in the road and wept contentedly. goods in the road and wept contentedly. Then the deputies went to Summit, where sixteem families were unhoused without much trouble.

A Famous Play at the Opera House—A Large Audience Enjoys it Hugely. The most uproarious audience seen in the Opera House for a long time gathered there last night to see the first performance here of "The Still Alarm." was a very mixed audience, and a study of it would go far to explain the hold the of it would go far to explain the hold the plece has on the general public. It is not necessary at this late day to speak of the play in detail. It is mainly notable for the fire engine scene, and for the finely trained horses and dog. The acting is good enough, that of Mr. Lacy, Mrs. Lacy and one or two others more than that.

The plot is interesting and well worked out, and from beginning to end it is full of thrillling scenes and enjoyable comedy.

out, and from beginning to end it is full of thrilling scenes and enjoyable comedy. The beautiful horses and their good behavior, the intelligence of the grey-hound, the very artistic scenery, are enough to make a very dull performance in other respects very attractive, but in this play there is not a dull minute. An unusually fine quartette rendered some pretty music. The representation of an engine house is worth seeing if there were no other attraction in the performance. The drams will be given again at the matinee this afternoon and for the last time to-night.

Whipped his Daughter's Traducer.

Just as the INTELLIGENCER reporter stepped into Squire Davis's office last night, Charley Lee, a well-known col-ored man, walked in behind him and said:
"Equire, I done just what you to!' me!
That ieller has wrote letters to my little girl again, and I started in to give him a good licking. I didn't do him up to my satisfaction, but I'm here to confess judgment and pay a fine."
"What was that?" said the Squire, "I don't exactly remember the case."

"What was that?" said the Squire, "I don't exactly remember the case."

"Why, you know that loafer, Cole, from Pittaburgh, wrote my little girl a dirty letter, and when I showed it to you, you told me I hadn't no recourse before a justice, for slander, but that I might liok the feller and come up here and pay a fine, before he had me arrested. He wrote her another letter today. He's done licked. What's de damage?"

"Five and caste Challen, Noville.

The report printed in the INTELLIOENCER on Thursday, to the effect that there was a rumor that the street railway systems of this city were about to pass into the hands of a syndicate, was partially incorrect, the fact being that the companies have sold bonds amounting to $150,000 to Brown & Townes, of Baltimore, the money to be used to pay the indebtedness of the company, particularly the indebtedness created by the building of the Benwood extension.

The bonds draw only 5 per cent interest and will be a relief to the company, since it will greatly reduce the interest.

Train No. 5, on the B. & O., know as the New York and Chicsgo limited, due here at 11:46 p. m. on Thursday night, ran into a helper engine near Burton. The engines were both wrecked, and the tender and mail car on the limited were telescoped half way. The mail clerks all happened to be in the rear end of the car at the time and none of them

gines jumped and escaped unhurt.

The limited was delayed four hours.
